GOVERNOR OF IOWA SEEKS FARM RELIEF

CAPPER WANTS TARIFF AID LOWDEN LAUDS MARKET IDEA

The Farmers in the 10 States of the Corn Belt Are Facing the Greatest Economic Problems in Their Existence—The Corn Crop Surplus Is Enormous—Farmers Seeking Protection From the Federal Government Not Satisfied With the Old Rule of Supply and Demand They want An Adequate Return for Their Labor.

Plans for presenting to other corn belt states the Iowa farm relief program and the picture of Iowa's hundred million bushel corn surplus out in the field in huge wire baskets were under way Wednesday at Des Moines, Iowa.

Governor Hammill soon will issue the invitation to 10 other corn states for a conference in Des Moines in January.

Meanwhile the Iowa farmer, with the largest surplus of any of the corn growing states, is holding his corn for better prices.

Only 10 per cent of the Iowa crop has been marketed, according to M. G. Thornburg, secretary of the Iowa Department of Agriculture.

The cornfields of Iowa today are dotted with huge, baskets of corn while the bankers and congressional representatives are wrestling with the problem of marketing this undigested bounty of nature.

A few farmers here and there are taking advantage of the Iowa Warehouse law to seal up corn cribs and borrow money on the corn, but the majority have built baskets of fence wire certain of them 10 feet high and 50 feet in diameter, bulging with husked corn.

Nearly every corn field has one or more of these big baskets, blanketed with snow. Farm leaders at the marketing conference here Wednesday asserted the farmers would continue to sit tight with their corn, when they could get only 58 cents a bushel for it at the farm.

The bumper Iowa corn crop of 478,590,000 bushels was more than 100,000,000 bushels above the average, and this excess lies in the fields, while the corn cribs are filled to the limit.

Warning was issued Wednesday by Senator Arthur Capper, Kansas, Republican, that unless the tariff was made to apply to agricultural crops its protection probably would be removed from manufactured products.

Addressing the Boston Chamber of Commerce, the senator declared that a "practical and sensible way" must be found to take care of farm surplus.

"Something must be done, and speedily, in regard to the troublesome matter of crop surplus," he said. "It is inevitable, it seems to me, that some arrangement must be made whereby, when there is a surplus to export that the surplus, say 10, 15 or 20 percent of the crop, will not govern the price of the entire crop.

"This simply means that some feasible system must be worked out so that the surplus can be moved into foreign consumptive channels, sold for what it will bring and the loss properly distributed among the producers, who will then be able to sell their remaining crops in the home market free of the drag of this excess production.

"This must be done in a way that is practical and sensible, a way the entire country will accept as such. Either our tariff must apply effectively to agricultural surpluses or its benevolent protecting hand is likely, I fear, to be removed from our surpluses of manufactured products."

Agriculture finds itself with its millions of members freely competing

among themselves, while it is obliged to sell its products in a highly organized industrial and commercial world, said Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois and a dirt farmer, in a statement Wednesday at Oregon, Illinois. He was elaborating a recent statement in which he said:

"We are beginning to question the orthodox views of the so-called law of supply and demand. We must listen to the newer economists take the findings of science and use them."

"It cannot too often be stated that the supply of any commodity which affects the price is not the entire stock of the commodity in existence, but only that portion of it which is offered for sale at a given price," said Mr. Lowden.

"No one, I think, who has observed the course of events in the last few years will deny that farming is sadly out of gear with the other parts of the industrial structure. I for one, do not believe it can regain its rightful place in this highly organized world except thru organization itself.

"In practice in every other industry the producer in the first instance makes the price at which he will sell his product. He usually arrives at this price by computing the cost of production and adds what he considers a fair profit. In the marketing of farm products alone has the producer been content with the methods of a century ago.

"Indeed, while the farmer generally has retained his old methods that have lost much of their original efficiency because of the tendency toward organization on the part of purchasers of his products, the number of sellers has constantly increased while the number of buyers has constantly decreased.

"The problems which press hardest upon the farmer today are concerned with the marketing of his products at prices which will enable him to live and go on producing."

Make Hay by Hot Air Farmers' Joke on Sun

Madison, Wis.—Experimental engineers of the department of agriculture, University of Wisconsin, reported on a new method in hay-making recently demonstrated at Genesee depot experimental farms.

By means of a high-pressure hot air fan, new mown hay was ready for baling eight hours after raking. Besides obviating field drying, the artificial process eliminates the risk of moisture damage and pests.

GALLIA COUNTY IS BANKRUPT SAYS AUDITOR

No Bills or Salaries Have Been Paid for Months—Funds are All Overdrawn.

Columbus, O., Dec. 30 (UP).—When Father Time wrote "finis" to the year, 1925, New Year's Eve, Gallia county was not to be among those shouting for the sheer joy of existing, according to a letter received by State Auditor Tracy from E. E. Scarberry, Gallia county auditor.

The county, according to Scarberry, is not only embarrassed financially, but is head-over-heels in debt, with remote prospects to an immediate recoup.

Scarberry outlined the situation as follows:

No bills and no salaries have been paid since April.

The county owes the sheriff $2,000 for expenses and boarding prisoners.

Bills against the county fund total $12,000, which, plus an overdraft, amounts to more than proceeds of the 1925 levy.

The county judicial fund has an overdraft of $825.

The grand jury has been called for January 5, but there is no money to pay witnesses or jurors.

The county owes the state $35,000 for the care of county wards in state institutions.

The county fund for the blind is overdrawn $408.

The only way out of the muddle, Scarberry wrote Tracy, is thru the issuance of deficiency bonds amounting to $72,036.

Explorer Discovers New Race in Western Siberia

Irkutsk, Siberia.—Prof. B. N. Gorodkoff, Russian explorer, who has traversed western Siberia, reports the discovery of a hitherto unknown race on the River Poora.

Altogether Professor Gorodkoff has discovered five clans containing 600 people. The local Samoyeds call the tribe "Pyan Ha Sovo," which means "forest people," while in their own language the tribe call themselves "Neshen," which means "men."

Their language is entirely different from that of any of the other nationalities populating western Siberia. The Neshen people differ also from their Samoyed neighbors by their dark hair and complexion. They have no intercourse with their neighbors and very few of them engage in fishing and hunting beyond the borders of their own little country.

HAPPENINGS IN OUR STATE

Taken Direct From the Wires by Correspondents of the United States Press Association.

(United Press)

Columbus—The supreme court has overruled the appeal of Leslie R. Abshire, Dayton street car man, against the City Railway company of Dayton for $5,000 damages Abshire claimed on the ground that the company violated its agreement with its employees.

Columbus—George Siebenschuh of Washington county, must serve life in the state penitentiary for the murder of Sheriff Charles Moore of Noble county in November, 1923, according to a supreme court ruling denying Siebenschuh a review.

Siebenschuh was alleged to have protected Elmer Derra, also life term, who confessed the murder. Later Siebenschuh appealed on the grounds of Farra's confession.

Cincinnati—Carl A. Magee, lay minister and one time candidate for lieutenant governor, will be sentenced here in connection with the misappropriation of $3,100 of fund of the Willard Gospel fund.

Magee entered a plea of guilty. He presented evidence, however, that he had returned the money and over protest of Prosecutor Bell, the court gave a suspended sentence of one year in the Ohio penitentiary.

Magee has occupied pulpits thruout the state.

Youngstown—Rear Admiral Giles Bates Harbor, U. S. N., retired, is dead here following a brief illness. Death occurred during the night.

Cleveland—A suit for $1,000,000 damages was filed against the board of directors of the Trumbull Steel company, Warren, Ohio, here Wednesday by counsel for Kate MacFarland and Helen V. Gear, Cleveland, and other stockholders, demanding that Jonathan Warner, former president of the concern, be required to make a full accounting of his financial transactions.

Port Clinton—The first trip of the season over the ice of Lake Erie was completed Wednesday by mail carriers who crossed and recrossed by automobile with sleds in tow carrying the mail.

The initial trip was from Catawba Island to Put-in-Bay Island with mail and six passengers. Two passengers made the return trip.

The going was fast with only a few hummocks in the eight inch ice.

UNDERWENT OPERATION.

Mrs. Ernest L. Tolbert is a patient at Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, where she underwent an operation Tuesday for the removal of a cyst tumor.

The operation was performed by Dr. Brock, assisted by Dr. H. D. Jackson, of this city.

Mrs. Tolbert's many friends will be pleased to learn that she came very nicely from under the influence of the anesthetic and is making a splendid recovery.

SAW A REAL GHOST.

Bobby Adkins, son of Judge and Mrs. J. W. Adkins, who was presented with a flashlight for Christmas had occasion to go upstairs recently in the dark. He took along his present with him and when he flashed it, it threw a shadow of himself on the wall. Bob nearly broke his neck running down stairs crying "there is a man in the room upstairs." The incident threw consternation into the family circle for a moment until it was explained to the boy's satisfaction.

HIS LIFE THREATENED

Arrest in Kenosha, Wis., of an alleged blackmailer has brought out the fact that Charles W. Nash, multi-millionaire president of the Nash Motor company, has recently received three Black Hand letters demanding $10,000 from him on pain of death.

LAND SOLD.

Meeker Terwilliger, executor of the John Bannister estate sold a half acre of land west of the old canal near the tannery lot at public sale at the court house Wednesday afternoon to Floyd Dunlap for $667. The land was appraised at $1,000 and brought exactly two-thirds of its appraisal. The sale was auctioned by C. G. Chalfin.

MARION HOLDERMAN DEAD.

Cash McGinnis left today for Washington D. C., called there by the death of his cousin, Marion Holderman, a former resident of this county. Mr. Holderman was an employee of the postoffice department. He was a bachelor and was 70 years of age.

WALNUT HIGH GETS TRACTOR INSTRUCTION

Course Extends Over Three Weeks and Expense Covers Only Cost of Supplies.

F. G. McCollister, of Clarksburg, has been named as the instructor in charge of the Gas Engine and Tractor course to be held by the department of vocational agriculture at the Walnut township high school January 4 to 23. Mr. McCollister is a graduate of the College of Agriculture of Ohio State university and this is his fourth season as instructor in courses of this nature.

This is the fifth year in which the trained instructors of the Ohio department of education have conducted Gas Engine and Tractor courses in high school departments of vocational agriculture thruout the state. That these courses meet a need of farmers who operate gas engines and tractors is shown by their enrollment in the various courses which have ranged from ten to thirty. The purpose of these courses is to provide systematic instruction in the principles of gas engines and tractors and how to repair and overhaul them. Discussions and demonstrations by the instructor and supervised work in repairing and overhauling tractors are the methods used.

The course to be held at the Walnut township high school will be conducted in the school shop five afternoons each week for three weeks beginning January 4. The cost is limited to a fee to cover the cost of supplies used, which will not exceed $1 for each individual enrolled. Fifty cents will be due at the first session. Four days at the beginning of the course will be occupied by work on gas engines and the remainder of the three weeks will be spent on the tractors.

With an instructor having the experience of Mr. McCollister and the opportunity to work on tractors in the shop, the success of the course will depend on the enrollment and regular attendance of the tractor owners and operators of the community. Men who have had experience in tractor repair and feel they have nothing to gain by attending the course can prove their community interest by enrolling for the benefit of those who have had less experience and thus help to make successful a community undertaking.

Practical knowledge of tractors and gas engines and experience in repairing and overhauling them can be obtained at small cost by enrolling in this course. The first session will be held at 1 p. m., Monday, January 4. Those who expect to enroll are urged to be ready for work at the first meeting.

Noted "Spoon Eater" Dies

John A. Malmgren of Parsons, Kan., who several years ago became famous as the "Spoon eater," died recently at the Kansas state hospital for epileptics. During the period of his notoriety he was operated on and 27 spoons, a safety pin and other pieces of metal were taken from his stomach. According to reports he died as a result of eating his blanket which he first cut up into small strips.

Discard the Pack Mule

Barcelona and other prominent cities in southern Spain no longer have the pack mule as the principal method of freight transportation about the streets, and that feature and others that were quite Oriental in type have given way to modern conveniences, a delightful surprise to travelers, and the city of Barcelona is planning a subway to help with its traffic.

Lead in Apples

Washington state produces more than a fifth of all the apples grown in the United States, and New York state nearly one-seventh.

"CHRISTMAS PRAYER" IS VERSE OF INMATE

Poet Laureate of Ohio Penitentiary Receives Much Comment On His Work in Paper.

Letters commenting on his poetry come from all over the country to J. Flanagan, 50173, poet laureate of the Ohio penitentiary. Flanagan is a consistent contributor to the Ohio Penitentiary News, published weekly at the prison.

Walls have not darkened the tone of his poetry but seem to have instilled their stern quality in it. Much of it is in the serious vein, but there is enough of jocularly in his lighter effort to show the true nature of the man.

His attempts at more serious verse are worthy of consideration. Possibilities of the penitentiary being the cradle for verse which will rival the prose of O'Henry are discussed by readers of the News. His poem, entitled "Our Christmas Prayer," in the Christmas issue, follows:

Dear Santa Claus, from the darkness and woes,

Of one of the prisons of earth there goes

A message to you on this Christmas day,

From those who are garbed in the convict's gray.

It's been ages it seems since we wrote you last,

The years have come quickly and quickly passed,

But memory recalls the Yuletide cheer,

That we knew in the days of yester year.

We've not been so good as we should have been,

Our souls not so pure as the child's of then,
For the whims of the world and glitter of gold,
We fell, and wandered far from the fold;
And the friends of our youth,
Ah, where are they?
Gone, like the pleasures of yesterday;
Now forsaken—alone—we want to renew

The childhood friendship we found with you.
You were such a good old friend, and somehow
We do not believe you'll desert us now,
But will pause on your journey this Christmas day

To gladden the hearts of the gone astray.

Don't bring us a lot of trinkets and toys,

For we care no more for the whims of boys;

They are cherished dreams that we used to know,

At the Christmas time in the long ago.

You can bring us a bit of consolation

To fill the gloom and desolation: Bring silver linings for the clouds of shame,

That have enveloped us and blighted our names;

Bring us some story books that tell

Of men who "came back" from the depths of hell;

Bring us the gifts of Faith and Love,

The teachings of Him who reigns above.

Bring us a mother's words of cheer,

Bring us her smiles, to banish the tears;

Bring us the kisses from loved one's lips;

Sweet as the honey the wild-bee sips;

Bring the laughter of children,

who romp with glee
Around the hearth and the Christmas tree;
These are the gifts for which we pray,
You will bring to us on this Christmas day.

WALL STREET JOURNAL FINANCIAL REVIEW

New York, Dec. 29.—(UP).—Not in a long time have railroad stocks completely monopolized the market as they did today. Except for a brief spurt of activity at the opening, industrials played only a modest part in the trading and were on the whole inclined to be reactionary although showing no real sign of weakness.

But for the rails, and especially the higher grade issues, demand was strong and constant and the group forged ahead sharply. Compilations of earnings for the first fifteen roads to report for November showed a big gain in earnings for that month.

In the general list weakness developed in a few issues, notably National Cloak and Suit and Weber and Heil. Leather stocks were moderately active and strong.

The money situation was unchanged with call funds at six per cent. Incidentally it was just 20 years ago that call money went to one hundred per cent.

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. THE NEW YEAR

Every day is a New Year day, and life-time the only period of existence about which we need be concerned, for our lives do not ebb and flow like ocean tides, nor change as do the seasons. The times and seasons come and go whether you like their manner or not, and so swift is the movement and so rapid the changes that you will have to be up and doing if you keep pace with them.

While nature is very exact about dates just as the everything depended on this old earth making its regular rounds and being on time to the fraction of a second, man, with all his boasted intelligence, is a boastful bungler, uncertain as to his times of coming and going and above all careless as to his own interests here on earth.

Some folks feel so self-important that they imagine they can influence the trend of the world, and some believe themselves assistants to the Creator.

When we get right down to brass tacks, man is merely a tenant of the earth while he lives, and does not take with him more than he brought into it.

Every day is a new year day, and life as a whole will be as perfect as we change to make it. The more careful our plan of living the greater will be our usefulness, as well as our share of comfort.

Midnight Thursday—the end of another calendar year—and the beginning of another span of human existence with all its possibilities and pleasures, whose dawn may mean a new and happier life, or whose sun may rise but to light the way to that inevitable end of it all.

What a momentous event!

It was New Years only yesterday, or so it seems. The joys and sorrows of a human eternity have been written on its invisible pages and in its graves failure and misdirected effort lie buried. Hearts have run the gamut of every emotion. Mounted to elysian heights and dashed to depths of black despair. Men and women have lived and loved—have loved and lost—the law of life. Only the mirror of memory remains. Let failure and regret rest beneath the clouds of yesterday.

And, now the new year—pregnant with hope and promise to every healthy human, for we are all borrowers from the bank of futurity in this sense. Hope is typical of heaven. It is our right to look forward and upward. This is a new day and the best ever—tomorrow will be better, if a good God lets us live.

Greeting, then, to the New Year—an open book in which will be set down even greater achievements and wider prosperity than crowd the limits of that mighty tome wherein is written the record of the past twelve month.

But in the enjoyment of material blessings, we must not forget to illumine the pages as they pass. Good deeds done; thoughtful consideration for others, charity, courtesy and kindness—let these be performed each day without proclamation or parade. Life holds no heritage to compare with appreciation while here, and memory ever after.

A hearty welcome, then, to the New Year.

Heavy Liquorice Demand

The chief liquorice-producing area in China is the Ordos territory, the exports of which during 1923 totaled over ten million pounds, valued at $870,000. It is estimated that this district finds work for at least 8,000 persons in liquorice digging.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Wolf are entertaining their daughter and grandchildren, Joan and Wilhelmina Slagle of Columbus. The latter is a student at Capital university.

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Cartright entertained the employees of the Chillicothe and Circleville branches of the Hudson-Essex agencies at their home on South Court street Wednesday evening to a six o'clock dinner. Covers were laid for John Kellhofer, Grant Hoffman, Robert McNeil, Jerry Goodman, Herschell Alkire and Verne Pontious of Chillicothe; and A. W. Phillips, E. W. Van Winkle, H. O. Pyle, Olen Bostwick, Allen Arbogast, Edward Kochensperger, Samuel Winfough and William Teal, of this city.

Mrs. Allie Clark, proprietor of Clark's 5 & 10 cent Store, of West Main street, entertained Wednesday evening to a six o'clock dinner at the Palace restaurant. Covers were laid for twenty-five. The guest list included the carriers of the Columbus Dispatch, the clerical staff and F. H. Billman, manager of the store, Mrs. Myrtle Grim, of Coshocton, Miss Laura Martin of this city and Mrs. C. J. Sheeter and son, Dwight Sheeter, of Wilmington. The boys were entertained by contests which were novel and entertaining.

Mrs. Allen Newmyer and Mrs. Frank Jones Bennett gave a dance to the young folks and college students at home for the holidays at the St. Philip's Parish house Wednesday evening. They were assisted by their daughters, Misses Annette Bennett and Agnes Newmyer. Seventy-five couples were present. Blenn Bales' orchestra furnished the music. The hall was beautifully arranged and artistically illuminated in Christmas decorations. The soft mellow illumination of lighted candles with a lighted Christmas tree on the stage made a pretty setting for a holiday dance, and all had their fill of dancing to most delightful music. Light refreshments were served. Among the young folks from out of town were; Virginia Woodard, of Wooster; Betty Lamb and Genevieve Metzgar, of Columbus; Sarah Millar, Elizabeth Hedges, Isabel Slagel and Esther May Petty, of Ashville; Velma Henry, of Cincinnati and Nancy and Georgianna Lindsay, of New Holland. Young men were present from New Holland, Ashville, Williamsport, Kingston, Columbus and Chillicothe.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Park Place, always alluring, was especially so last evening, with the moon showing the frost and snow patches up to advantage and the lights of the beautiful home of Dr. and Mrs. Howard Jones gleaming over the lawn as Mrs. Jones, Miss Jones and Miss Eleanor Jones ushered their guests into the warmth of the home when they entertained in honor of Mrs. Hildeburn Jones, of Albany, N. Y., and Mrs. Lloyd Jones, of this city. Sixty gentlemen and ladies, friends of the young people, found their places at the twelve tables which were placed in the living room, drawing room and the dining room. Branches of fir trees and Christmas bells decorated the rooms and the beautiful Christmas tree which was still standing added to the beauty of the scene. The tiny red baskets placed in the center of the tables containing mints, were the only decoration on the tables and the place cards were miniature log cabins in red and green. At the conclusion of the delicious dinner which was served at the tables, bridge was played and when the scores were counted Mrs. George Fickardt was the recipient of the ladies' prize while the gentlemen's prize went to Mr. Frank Bennett. Besides the guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Hildeburn Jones, of Albany, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Heise, of Newark, Mr. and Mrs. D. Adrian Yates and Mrs. David Hornbeck, of Columbus, were out of town guests.

AMUSEMENTS

The return to favor of the real American boy hero and the decline of the sophisticated "half-hero" who has held sway on the screen of the United States for the past four or five years, is the prediction of Robert Z. Leonard, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer director.

"The 'shiek' type of hero fascinated the American public by its novelty," says Leonard, "but as is the case of any novelty it becomes tiresome when thoroughly understood, and for the meat of its entertainment the masses are going back to the everyday things with which they are intimately concerned."

"I believe that the people are ready and waiting to see Charles Ray in a picture that will show him at his best as the inimitable country boy he alone can do so well. Every mother sees in him the kind of boy she wishes her son to be and every girl realizes deep in her heart his superiority over the 'brilliant' that may fascinate her momentarily."

liants' that may fascinate her momentarily."

Ray was secured for the leading male role in Leonard's production of "Bright Lights" coming to the Met theater on Friday. In it Ray is co-starred with Pauline Starke, and will be seen as the bashful, lovable country youth in whom the chorus girl, played by Pauline Starke, discovers her ideal. It is said to be a delightful story of youth, contrasting the surface differences, yet bringing out the similarity of their ideas and ideals.

Other members of the cast are Lilyan Tashman, Lawford Davidson, Ned Sparks and Eugene Besserer. The screen play was adapted by Jessie Burns and Lew Lipton from a magazine story by Richard Connell.

MODERN BANK IN COMMUNITY IS BIG ASSET

Clark Will Made Address Wednesday Evening Before Greenfield Rotary.

"No community can progress unless its banks are progressive and successful," Clark Will, assistant cashier of The Third National bank of Circleville told members of the Greenfield Rotary club last night.

Banking has undergone many changes in the last quarter of a century, Mr. Will pointed out in his address on "The Bank as a Community Asset." Not the least of these has been the realization that the bank is not a private concern to be operated solely with a view to the profit of its stockholders, but that it is a great service institution with the interests of the depositors and of the community occupying equal, if not greater place than those of the stockholders in the minds of the managing officers.

The modern bank, in addition to furnishing the community a safe place to keep its money, also has taken the lead in preaching thrifty living and its value not only to the individual but to the community as a whole; is acting as a guide and leading in the fight against fake stock swindlers; is acting as a great reservoir of capital, into which are poured the savings of the many, which then, in turn, are lent to farmers, manufacturers and merchants, who employ those who save, and in one of the latest developments, the trust departments, guards the patrimony of widows and orphans from those who would rob them of their all.

Every bank, no matter how small, Mr. Will said, has departments for men and women of all ages. In youth the savings department offers an opportunity to lay aside the surplus of one's earnings, looking toward the time when capital will be needed for business ventures; in maturity and middle age, the commercial department furnishes the money with which business is carried on and the bond department guides the customer in selecting safe and profitable investments. Then, as death comes on, the trust department offers a place where those who are left behind, and for whom all this effort was made, may be protected.

"Take your banker into your confidence," Mr. Will advised. "Lay all of the cards on the table. Ask his advice often. He is in touch daily with many lines of business, you with only one."

"If he won't lend you money when you think you ought to have it, remember that it is not his money. The money in the bank belongs to the depositors. They can come in and demand it at any time. The borrower is the man to be considered when a loan is to be made. Ahead of him comes the depositor, whose money must be kept safe; the community, which must not be made panicky by business failures caused by over extension of credit the state, which has surrounded the business of banking with stringent laws; the stockholders, who are entitled to a profit for the risk they take, and last, the borrower, who, if his loan is granted, will not jeopardize the rights of others, is entitled to, and will get the fullest cooperation and assistance from his bank."

In the Museum of Vienna there is a wonderful collection of diamonds of many colors. They are in the form of a bouquet, the natural colors of the flowers being represented by diamonds of the same hues. These stones were collected by a Tyrolean, Virgin von Helmreich, who passed many years in the diamond mines of South Africa and Brazil, buying many of his finds from the mine owners.

GOVERNOR OF IOWA SEEKS FARM RELIEF

CAPPER WANTS TARIFF AID LOWDEN LAUDS MARKET IDEA

The Farmers in the 10 States of the Corn Belt Are Facing the Greatest Economic Problems in Their Existence—The Corn Crop Surplus Is Enormous—Farmers Seeking Protection From the Federal Government Not Satisfied With the Old Rule of Supply and Demand They want An Adequate Return for Their Labor.

Plans for presenting to other corn-belt states the Iowa farm relief program and the picture of Iowa's hundred million bushel corn surplus out in the field in huge wire baskets were under way Wednesday at Des Moines, Iowa.

Governor Hammil soon will issue the invitation to 10 other corn states for a conference in Des Moines in January.

Meanwhile the Iowa farmer, with the largest surplus of any of the corn growing states, is holding his corn for better prices.

Only 10 per cent of the Iowa crop has been marketed, according to M. G. Thornburg, secretary of the Iowa Department of Agriculture.

The cornfields of Iowa today are dotted with huge, baskets of corn while the bankers and congressional representatives are wrestling with the problem of marketing this undigested bounty of nature.

A few farmers here and there are taking advantage of the Iowa Warehouse law to seal up corn cribs and borrow money on the corn, but the majority have built baskets of fence wire certain of them 10 feet high and 50 feet in diameter, bulging with husked corn.

Nearly every corn field has one or more of these big baskets, blanketed with snow. Farm leaders at the marketing conference here Wednesday asserted the farmers would continue to sit tight with their corn, when they could get only 58 cents a bushel for it at the farm.

The bumper Iowa corn crop of 478,590,000 bushels was more than 100,000,000 bushels above the average, and this excess lies in the fields, while the corn cribs are filled to the limit.

Warning was issued Wednesday by Senator Arthur Capper, Kansas, Republican, that unless the tariff was made to apply to agricultural crops its protection probably would be removed from manufactured products.

Addressing the Boston Chamber of Commerce, the senator declared that a "practical and sensible way" must be found to take care of farm surplus.

"Something must be done, and speedily, in regard to the troublesome matter of crop surplus," he said. "It is inevitable, it seems to me, that some arrangement must be made where, when there is a surplus to export that the surplus, say 10, 15 or 20 per cent of the crop, will not govern the price of the entire crop.

"This simply means that some feasible system must be worked out so that the surplus can be moved into foreign consumptive channels, sold for what it will bring and the loss properly distributed among the producers, who will then be able to sell their remaining crops in the home market free of the drag of this excess production.

"This must be done in a way that is practical and sensible, a way the entire country will accept as such. Either our tariff must apply effectively to agricultural surpluses or its benevolent protecting hand is likely, I fear, to be removed from our surpluses of manufactured products."

Agriculture finds itself with its millions of members freely competing

among themselves, while it is obliged to sell its products in a highly organized industrial and commercial world, said Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois and a dirt farmer, in a statement Wednesday at Oregon, Illinois. He was elaborating a recent statement in which he said:

"We are beginning to question the orthodox views of the so-called law of supply and demand. We must listen to the newer economists take the findings of science and use them."

"It cannot too often be stated that the supply of any commodity which affects the price is not the entire stock of the commodity in existence, but only that portion of it which is offered for sale at a given price," said Mr. Lowden.

"No one, I think, who has observed the course of events in the last few years will deny that farming is sadly out of gear with the other parts of the industrial structure. I for one, do not believe it can regain its rightful place in this highly organized world except thru organization itself.

"In practice in every other industry the producer in the first instance makes the price at which he will sell his product. He usually arrives at this price by computing the cost of production and adds what he considers a fair profit. In the marketing of farm products alone has the producer been content with the methods of a century ago.

"Indeed, while the farmer generally has retained his old methods that have lost much of their original efficiency because of the tendency toward organization on the part of purchasers of his products, the number of sellers has constantly increased while the number of buyers has constantly decreased.

"The problems which press hardest upon the farmer today are concerned with the marketing of his products at prices which will enable him to live and go on producing."

Madison, Wis.—Experimental engineers of the department of agriculture, University of Wisconsin, reported on a new method in hay-making recently demonstrated at Genesee depot experimental farms.

GALLIA COUNTY IS BANKRUPT SAYS AUDITOR

No Bills or Salaries Have Been Paid for Months--
Funds are All Overdrawn.

Columbus, O., Dec. 30 (UP).—When Father Time wrote "finis" to the year, 1925, New Year's Eve, Gallia county was not to be among those shouting for the sheer joy of existing, according to a letter received by State Auditor Tracy from E. E. Scarberry, Gallia county auditor.

The county, according to Scarberry, is not only embarrassed financially, but is head-over-heels in debt, with remote prospects to an immediate re-coup.

Scarberry outlined the situation as follows:

No bills and no salaries have been paid since April.

The county owes the sheriff $2,000 for expenses and boarding prisoners.

Bills against the county fund total $12,000, which, plus an overdraft, amounts to more than proceeds of the 1925 levy.

The county judicial fund has an overdraft of $825.

The grand jury has been called for January 5, but there is no money to pay witnesses or jurors.

The county owes the state $35,000 for the care of county wards in state institutions.

The county fund for the blind is overdrawn $408.

The only way out of the muddle, Scarberry wrote Tracy, is thru the issuance of deficiency bonds amounting to $72,036.

Explorer Discovers New Race in Western Siberia

Irkutsk, Siberia.—Prof. B. N. Gorodkov, Russian explorer, who has traversed western Siberia, reports the discovery of a hitherto unknown race on the River Poora.

Altogether Professor Gorodkov has discovered five clans containing 600 people. The local Samoyeds call the tribe "Pyan Ha Sovo," which means "forest people," while in their own language the tribe call themselves "Neshen," which means "men."

Their language is entirely different from that of any of the other nationalities populating western Siberia. The Neshen people differ also from their samoyed neighbors by their dark hair and complexion. They have no intercourse with their neighbors and very few of them engage in fishing and hunting beyond the borders of their own little country.

Columbus—George Siebenschuh of Washington county, must serve life in the state penitentiary for the murder of Sheriff Charles Moore of Noble county in November, 1923, according to a supreme court ruling denying Siebenschuh a review.

Siebenschuh was alleged to have protected Elmer Derra, also life term, who confessed the murder. Later Siebenschuh appealed on the grounds of Farra's confession.

Cincinnati—Carl A. Magee, lay minister and one time candidate for lieutenant governor, will be sentenced here in connection with the misappropriation of $3,100 of fund of the Willard Gospel fund.

Magee has occupied pulpits thruout the state.

The incident threw consternation into the family circle for a moment until it was explained to the boy's satisfaction.

WALNUT HIGH GETS TRACTOR INSTRUCTION

Course Extends Over Three Weeks and Expense Covers Only Cost of Supplies.

F. G. McCollister, of Clarksburg, has been named as the instructor in charge of the Gas Engine and Tractor course to be held by the department of vocational agriculture at the Walnut township high school January 4 to 23. Mr. McCollister is a graduate of the College of Agriculture of Ohio State university and this is his fourth season as instructor in courses of this nature.

This is the fifth year in which the trained instructors of the Ohio department of education have conducted Gas Engine and Tractor courses in high school departments of vocational agriculture thruout the state. That these courses meet a need of farmers who operate gas engines and tractors is shown by their enrollment in the various courses which have ranged from ten to thirty. The purpose of these courses is to provide systematic instruction in the principles of gas engines and tractors and how to repair and overhaul them. Discussions and demonstrations by the instructor and supervised work in repairing and overhauling tractors are the methods used.

The course to be held at the Walnut township high school will be conducted in the school shop five afternoons each week for three weeks beginning January 4. The cost is limited to a fee to cover the cost of supplies used, which will not exceed $1 for each individual enrolled. Fifty cents will be due at the first session. Four days at the beginning of the course will be occupied by work on gas engines and the remainder of the three weeks will be spent on the tractors.

With an instructor having the experience of Mr. McCollister and the opportunity to work on tractors in the shop, the success of the course will depend on the enrollment and regular attendance of the tractor owners and operators of the community. Men who have had experience in tractor repair and feel they have nothing to gain by attending the course can prove their community interest by enrolling for the benefit of those who have had less experience and thus help to make successful a community undertaking.

Practical knowledge of tractors and gas engines and experience in repairing and overhauling them can be obtained at small cost by enrolling in this course. The first session will be held at 1 p. m., Monday, January 4. Those who expect to enroll are urged to be ready for work at the first meeting.

Noted "Spoon Eater" Dies

John A. Malmgren of Parsons, Kan., who several years ago became famous as the "Spoon eater," died recently at the Kansas state hospital for epileptics. During the period of his notoriety he was operated on and 27 spoons, a safety pin and other pieces of metal were taken from his stomach. According to reports he died as a result of eating his blanket which he first cut up into small strips.

Discard the Pack Mule

Barcelona and other prominent cities in southern Spain no longer have the pack mule as the principal method of freight transportation about the streets, and that feature and others that were quite Oriental in type have given way to modern conveniences, a delightful surprise to travelers, and the city of Barcelona is planning a subway to help with its traffic.

"CHRISTMAS PRAYER" IS VERSE OF INMATE

Poet Laureate of Ohio Penitentiary Receives Much Comment On His Work in Paper.

Letters commenting on his poetry come from all over the country to J. Flanagan, 50173, poet laureate of the Ohio penitentiary. Flanagan is a consistent contributor to the Ohio Penitentiary News, published weekly at the prison.

Walls have not darkened the tone of his poetry but seem to have instilled their stern quality in it. Much of it is in the serious vein, but there is enough of jocularity in his lighter effort to show the true nature of the man.

His attempts at more serious verse are worthy of consideration. Possibilities of the penitentiary being the cradle for verse which will rival the prose of O'Henry are discussed by readers of the News. His poem, entitled "Our Christmas Prayer," in the Christmas issue, follows:

Dear Santa Claus, from the darkness and woes,
Of one of the prisons of earth there goes
A message to you on this Christmas day,
From those who are garbed in the convict's gray.
It's been ages it seems since we wrote you last,
The years have come quickly and quickly passed,
But memory recalls the Yuletide cheer,
That we knew in the days of yester year.
We've not been so good as we should have been,

Our souls not so pure as the child's of then,
For the whims of the world and glitter of gold,
We fell, and wandered far from the fold;
And the friends of our youth, Ah, where are they?
Gone, like the pleasures of yesterday;
Now forsaken alone—we want to renew

The childhood friendship we found with you.
You were such a good old friend, and somehow
We do not believe you'll desert us now,
But will pause on your journey this Christmas day

To gladden the hearts of the gone astray.
Don't bring us a lot of trinkets and toys,
For we care no more for the whims of boys;

They are cherished dreams that we used to know,
At the Christmas time in the long ago.

You can bring us a bit of consolation
To fill the gloom and desolation:
Bring silver linings for the clouds of shame,

That have enveloped us and blighted our names;
Bring us some story books that tell
Of men who "came back" from the depths of hell;

Bring us the gifts of Faith and Love,
The teachings of Him who reigns above.

Bring us a mother's words of cheer,
Bring us her smiles, to banish the tears;

Bring us the kisses from loved one's lips;
Sweet as the honey the wild-bee sips;

Bring the laughter of children,

who romp with glee
Around the hearth and the Christmas tree;
These are the gifts for which we pray,
You will bring to us on this Christmas day.

THE ZERO HOUR FOR USED CAR SALES

During the month of January you will be able to buy more value in a used car than at any other time of the year. Unlike February, spring is not just around the corner and it will be to anyone's advantage to at least investigate the offerings we are making to clear our used car stock before we start saving out the best cars for spring.

To start January right we are offering five used Ford cars ranging from $15 to $30.

We also have a big bargain in a Gramm-Bernstein truck complete with body and in good mechanical condition. To anyone wishing a truck heavier than a Ford outfit, it will be well to look this one up.

Of Nation Losing Interest In National Sport.

New York, Dec. 29.—(U.P.)—Interest in base ball, once almost the only game played on the sandlots of the United States, has fallen off among the small boys of the nation fifty per cent in the last three years, Major J. WALL STREET JOURNAL FINANCIAL REVIEW

New York, Dec. 29.—(UP.)—Not in a long time have railroad stocks completely monopolized the market as they did today. Except for a brief spurt of activity at the opening, industrials played only a modest part in the trading and were on the whole inclined to be reactionary although showing no real sign of weakness.

But for the rails, and especially the higher grade issues, demand was strong and constant and the group forged ahead sharply. Compilations of earnings for the first fifteen roads to report for November showed a big gain in earnings for that month.

In the general list weakness developed in a few issues, notably National Cloak and Suit and Weber and Heil. Leather stocks were moderately active and strong.

The money situation was unchanged with call funds at six per cent. Incidentally it was just 20 years ago that call money went to one hundred per cent.

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. Will you let me help you select the memorial for your lot. Call at show room. NO AGENTS.

THE NEW YEAR

Every day is a New Year day, and life-time the only period of existence about which we need be concerned. For our lives do not ebb and flow like ocean tides, nor change as do the seasons. The times and seasons come and go whether you like their manner or not, and so swift is the movement and so rapid the changes that you will have to be up and doing if you keep pace with them.

While nature is very exact about dates just as the everything dependent on this old earth making its regular rounds and being on time to the fraction of a second, man, with all his boasted intelligence, is a boastful bungler, uncertain as to his times of coming and going and above all careless as to his own interests here on earth.

Some folks feel so self-important that they imagine they can influence the trend of the world, and some believe themselves assistants to the Creator.

When we get right down to brass tacks, man is merely a tenant of the earth while he lives, and does not take with him more than he brought into it.

Every day is a new year day, and life as a whole will be as perfect as we change to make it. The more careful our plan of living the greater will be our usefulness, as well as our share of comfort.

Midnight Thursday—the end of another calendar year—and the beginning of another span of human existence with all its possibilities and pleasures, whose dawn may mean a new and happier life, or whose sun may rise but to light the way to that inevitable end of it all.

What a momentous event!

It was New Years only yesterday, or so it seems. The joys and sorrows of a human eternity have been written on its invisible pages and in its graves failure and misdirected effort lie buried. Hearts have run the gamut of every emotion. Mounted to elysian heights and dashed to depths of black despair. Men and women have lived and loved—have loved and lost—the law of life. Only the mirror of memory remains. Let failure and regret rest heath the clouds of yesterday.

And, now the new year—pregnant with hope and promise to every healthy human, for we are all borrowers from the bank of futurity in this sense. Hope is typical of heaven. It is our right to look forward and upward. This is a new day and the best ever—tomorrow will be better, if a good God lets us live.

Greeting, then, to the New Year—an open book in which will be set down even greater achievements and wider prosperity than crowd the limits of that mighty tome wherein is written the record of the past twelve month.

But in the enjoyment of material blessings, we must not forget to illumine the pages as they pass. Good deeds done, thoughtful consideration for others, charity, courtesy and kindness—let these be performed each day without proclamation or parade. Life holds no heritage to compare with appreciation while here, and memory ever after.

A hearty welcome, then, to the New Year.

Heavy Liquor Demand

The chief liquor-producing area in China is the Ordos territory, the exports of which during 1923 totaled over ten million pounds, valued at $870,000. It is estimated that this district finds work for at least 8,000 persons in liquor distilling.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Wolf are entertaining their daughter and grandchildren, Joan and Wilhelmina Slagle of Columbus. The latter is a student at Capital university.

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Cartright entertained the employees of the Chillicothe and Circleville branches of the Hudson-Essex agencies at their home on South Court street Wednesday evening to a six o'clock dinner. Covers were laid for John Kellhofer, Grant Hoffman, Robert McNeil, Jerry Goodman, Herschell Alkire and Verne Pontious of Chillicothe; and A. W. Phillips, E. W. Van Winkle, H. O. Pyle, Olen Bostwick, Allen Arbogast, Edward Kochensperger, Samuel Winfough and William Teal, of this city.

Mrs. Allie Clark, proprietor of Clark's 5 & 10 cent Store, of West Main street, entertained Wednesday evening to a six o'clock dinner at the Palace restaurant. Covers were laid for twenty-five. The guest list included the carriers of the Columbus Dispatch, the clerical staff and F. H. Billman, manager of the store, Mrs. Myrtle Grim, of Coshocton, Miss Laura Martin of this city and Mrs. C. J. Sheeter and son, Dwight Sheeter, of Wilmington. The boys were entertained by contests which were novel and entertaining.

Mrs. Allen Newmyer and Mrs. Frank Jones Bennett gave a dance to the young folks and college students at home for the holidays at the St. Philip's Parish house Wednesday evening. They were assisted by their daughters, Misses Annette Bennett and Agnes Newmyer. Seventy-five couples were present. Blenn Bales' orchestra furnished the music. The hall was beautifully arranged and artistically illuminated in Christmas decorations. The soft mellow illumination of lighted candles with a lighted Christmas tree on the stage made a pretty setting for a holiday dance, and all had their fill of dancing to most delightful music. Light refreshments were served. Among the young folks from out of town were; Virginia Woodard, of Wooster; Betty Lamb and Genevieve Metzgar, of Columbus; Sarah Millar, Elizabeth Hedges, Isabel Slagel and Esther May Petty, of Ashville; Velma Henry, of Cincinnati and Nancy and Georgianna Lindsay, of New Holland. Young men were present from New Holland, Ashville, Williamsport, Kingston, Columbus and Chillicothe.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Park Place, always alluring, was especially so last evening, with the moon showing the frost and snow patches up to advantage and the lights of the beautiful home of Dr. and Mrs. Howard Jones gleaming over the lawn as Mrs. Jones, Miss Jones and Miss Eleanor Jones ushered their guests into the warmth of the home when they entertained in honor of Mrs. Hildeburn Jones, of Albany, N. Y., and Mrs. Lloyd Jones, of this city. Sixty gentlemen and ladies, friends of the young people, found their places at the twelve tables which were placed in the living room, drawing room and the dining room. Branches of fir trees and Christmas bells decorated the rooms and the beautiful Christmas tree which was still standing added to the beauty of the scene. The tiny red baskets placed in the center of the tables containing mints, were the only decoration on the tables and the place cards were miniature log cabins in red and green. At the conclusion of the delicious dinner which was served at the tables, bridge was played and when the scores were counted Mrs. George Fickardt was the recipient of the ladies' prize while the gentlemen's prize went to Mr. Frank Bennett. Besides the guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Hildeburn Jones, of Albany, N. AMUSEMENTS

The return to favor of the real American boy hero and the decline of the sophisticated "half-hero" who has held sway on the screen of the United States for the past four or five years, is the prediction of Robert Z. Leonard, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer director.

"The 'shiek' type of hero fascinated the American public by its novelty," says Leonard, "but as is the case of any novelty it becomes tiresome when thoroughly understood, and for the meat of its entertainment the masses are going back to the everyday things with which they are intimately concerned."

"I believe that the people are ready and waiting to see Charles Ray in a picture that will show him at his best as the inimitable country boy he alone can do so well. Every mother sees in him the kind of boy she wishes her son to be and every girl realizes deep in her heart his superiority over the 'brilliant' that may fascinate her momentarily."

Ray was secured for the leading male role in Leonard's production of "Bright Lights" coming to the Met theater on Friday. In it Ray is co-starred with Pauline Starke, and will be seen as the bashful, lovable country youth in whom the chorus girl, played by Pauline Starke, discovers her ideal. It is said to be a delightful story of youth, contrasting the surface differences, yet bringing out the similarity of their ideas and ideals.

Other members of the cast are Lilyan Tashman, Lawford Davidson, Ned Sparks and Eugene Bessner. The screen play was adapted by Jessie Burns and Lew Lipton from a magazine story by Richard Connell.

MODERN BANK IN COMMUNITY IS BIG ASSET

Clark Will Made Address
Wednesday Evening Before Greenfield Rotary.

"No community can progress unless its banks are progressive and successful," Clark W. Will, assistant cashier of The Third National bank of Circleville told members of the Greenfield Rotary club last night.

Banking has undergone many changes in the last quarter of a century, Mr. Will pointed out in his address on "The Bank as a Community Asset." Not the least of these has been the realization that the bank is not a private concern to be operated solely with a view to the profit of its stockholders, but that it is a great service institution with the interests of the depositors and of the community occupying equal, if not greater place than those of the stockholders in the minds of the managing officers. The modern bank, in addition to furnishing the community a safe place to keep its money, also has taken the lead in preaching thrifty living and its value not only to the individual but to the community as a whole; is acting as a guide and leading in the fight against fake stock swindlers; is acting as a great reservoir of capital, into which are poured the savings of the many, which then, in turn, are lent to farmers, manufacturers and merchants, who employ those who save, and in one of the latest developments, the trust departments, guards the patrimony of widows and orphans from those who would rob them of their all.

Every bank, no matter how small, Mr. Will said, has departments for men and women of all ages. In youth the savings department offers an opportunity to lay aside the surplus of one's earnings, looking toward the time when capital will be needed for business ventures; in maturity and middle age, the commercial department furnishes the money with which business is carried on and the bond department guides the customer in selecting safe and profitable investments. Then, as death comes on, the trust department offers a place where those who are left behind, and for whom all this effort was made, may be protected.

"Take your banker into your confidence," Mr. Will advised. "Lay all of the cards on the table. Ask his advice often. He is in touch daily with many lines of business, you with only one."

"If he won't lend you money when you think you ought to have it, remember that it is not his money. The money in the bank belongs to the depositors. They can come in and demand it at any time. The borrower is the man to be considered when a loan is to be made. Ahead of him comes the depositor, whose money must be kept safe; the community, which must not be made panicky by business failures caused by over extension of credit the state, which has surrounded the business of banking with stringent laws; the stockholders, who are entitled to a profit for the risk they take, and last, the borrower, who, if his loan is granted, will not jeopardize the rights of others, is entitled to, and will get the fullest cooperation and assistance from his bank."
